

AAMSI TEAMS WITH MILSPEC SERVICES PTY LTD TO SERVE AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE MARKET

Fort Lauderdale, Fl August 10, 2017

Associated Aircraft Manufacturing and Sales, Inc. (AAMSI) today announced the signing of a comprehensive Teaming Agreement with Milspec Services Pty Ltd (Milspec Services) of Queensland, Australia, to better serve the needs of the Australian Defence market. AAMSI is a Boeing licensed structural parts manufacturer for the F-18 and CH-47 platforms while Milspec Services is a long-established supplier of logistical services and spares support to the Australian Defence sector.

This new teaming agreement brings together two strong companies in Sales, Logistics Support, Repair & Overhaul, and Manufacturing that have been working with the Australian Defense Forces for more than a combined 50 years.

Both companies, working together, will improve the support given to both current and future customers without adding any extra costs to the Commonwealth of Australia.

“This partnership shows the commitment of AAMSI and Milspec Services to provide long term support of the F-18 and CH47 in our region by bringing together the leading Boeing approved component manufacturer and Australia’s leading defence supplier in a deal that brings no extra costs to the Commonwealth but ensures ongoing support to these platforms ,” said Steve Byrne, Director of Milspec Services Pty Ltd.

Dennis Zalupski, President & CEO of AAMSI added “The opportunity for AAMSI to team with such a well-established company in Milspec Services will surely strengthen the product and service offerings we can bring together to the Australian Defence sector.”

Milspec Services & AAMSI are both looking forward to supporting all platforms of the Australia Defence Force directly and through the Defence Contracted customers.
